Amy: My friends Karen and Eric fought again. They are like water and oil!

Roy: Water and oil? What do you mean?

Amy: Water and oil don't mix together. When you shake oil and water, they still don't mix. It's like Karen and Eric! They always fight. And they don't spend much time together.

Roy: Why don't oil and water mix?

Amy: Water acts in a different way from oil. The oil is light, and water is heavy. Like this, Karen and Eric don't mix because they are so different!

- ① Both water and oil are light.
- ② Water is heavier than oil.
- ③ Water is clean and oil is dirty.
- ④ They have different colors.

[8~10] Read and answer each question.

In art class today, I did marbling. We did marbling like this. First, we added colors to water, and we put the water in a tray. Then we put drops of oil on the water. The oil and water stayed apart. We used tools to spread the oil and water around. I used a stick to make patterns today. We could make patterns because the oil and water do not mix.

When we finished making the pattern, we put paper over the tray. The pattern was on the paper. It was pretty, but we could see the same pattern only once.

We repeated for each pattern, and it changed every time! Each pattern was new.

8. What is the reading about?
