(3) To understand this question is not easy.

(noun, adjective, adverb)

[6~8] Read and answer each question.

In Korea, it is 9 in the morning. But in North America, it is night! Why is this? Why do we have night and day?

Night and day happen because the world is turning. The world is round, so it turns like a ball. But only one half is in sunlight at a time. The other half is dark. The world turns once in 24 hours. That way, the world has day and night.

Now, one half of the world is toward the sun. That half is in the day time. At night, the half becomes dark, because it is away from the sun. At sunrise, it moves into the daylight again. The world always turns, and the cycle goes on!

6. We have day and night because

- ① the sun is toward the world.
- ② the sunrise and sunset happen.
- ③ the world is round and turning.
- ④ the world is turning fast.
