[Reading]

[16~20] Read and answer the questions.

One living fossil is the ginkgo. There were ginkgo trees during the times of the dinosaur. You see the ginkgo everywhere today, so every ginkgo is a living fossil. The dragonfly is also a living fossil. Dragonflies are as old as dinosaurs! They lived in the same age, but all dinosaurs died. Now, there are no dinosaurs, but we can still see many dragonflies. Both dragonflies and the ginkgo are living fossils! A living fossil looks the same as its fossil from long ago. The dragonfly did not change for 230 million years. That is also true for the ginkgo. All ginkgo leaves have two parts. About 270 million years ago, the ginkgo also had two parts! They just look like their fossils. Isn't it surprising?

16. Choose the one that is NOT correct.

- ① The ginkgo is a living fossil.
- ② Dinosaurs isn't living fossil because they are not alive.
- ③ The ginkgo had one part about 270 million years ago.
- ④ Dragonflies are as old as ginkgo.

Answer the following questions. Are tomatoes good for our heart? Are grapes good for our blood? Maybe you want to look through the Internet. Well, you don't need to do that. Just think about the food's color! Color tells you something important. How does food make your body stronger? Food colors tell you about it!

Food of each color helps your body in a different way. Fruits and vegetables have different colors. They are red, yellow, white, purple, and green. To build a strong body, eat from all five colors. First, for a healthy heart, eat bright red foods. Red beans and tomatoes are good examples. An apple is helpful for the heart, too. Yellow foods like sweet potatoes are good for your eyes. White foods lower blood pressure, and a banana is a good example. Eat purple foods like grapes, too, for healthy blood. Finally, dark green vegetables like spinach make strong bones and teeth. They help children's growth. Put some color in your diet, and you can stay healthy!

17. Fill in each blank.

color	good for
red	heart
yellow	eyes
green	bones and teeth
white	blood pressure
purple	blood

One of the most powerful women in history was Wu Zetian. She ruled China in the late 7th century. She did clever but cruel things to get power. People thought she killed her own family members. She got to the top at last.

At first, she ruled secretly behind the emperor, her husband. Then she became empress and ruled China herself. Wu used secret police to rule China, and people were very afraid of her. She used the police to kill her enemies and many other people. China was like "a big cage" at that time, and the Chinese were like birds in that cage! But some people thought she was not bad. She made many wise decisions, and China was peaceful because of her. So, she got respect, even when people hated and feared her.

She became old and sick. So, Wu had to give her power to her son Li Xian. She died a few months later. When she died, people called her a monster. They thought she was a very bad ruler. Today, some people think better of her. China's people still wonder: was she a good or bad ruler? What do you think?

18. Why was China called "a big cage" in the 7th century?

- ① China was peaceful at that time.
- ② Many people grew birds in the cage.
- ③ People in China didn't have freedom.
- ④ Wu made many wise decisions.

There is a big holiday in November in the United States. It's Thanksgiving! It's a national holiday and a time for families to get together. Often, they have a big meal on that day. They usually eat roast turkey and many other foods.

Thanksgiving is also important for business, because it starts the Christmas season. The season is between Thanksgiving and Christmas, and American companies make much of their money for the year then. Thanksgiving is important for _____ the economy and the family in the US!

Who had the first Thanksgiving in America? Americans tell the story of the Pilgrims and the "first Thanksgiving." The Pilgrims were a religious group from England. In the story, they had the first Thanksgiving in 1621 in Massachusetts.

19. What is the best word for the blanks?
both

We can see the eight planets in our solar system. Mercury is the first planet from the sun. Venus is the second, and Earth is the third. Mars is the fourth, Jupiter is the fifth. Jupiter is the largest of all eight planets. Then Saturn is the sixth, and Uranus is the seventh. The eighth planet — the last — is Neptune. Pluto was the ninth planet, but it is no longer a planet. Scientists decided Pluto is not a planet. Why? First, Pluto is too small. Second, Pluto has a lot of objects around it, but it cannot control them. A planet must control other objects near it. Now Pluto is just a small object beyond Neptune. There are many of them in space!

20. Choose the one that is NOT correct.

- ① Now there are eight planets in our solar system.
- ② The planet between Earth and Jupiter is Mars.
- ③ The sun is not planet.
- ④ The biggest planet in our solar system is Satum.
